Assessing 21st Century Skills National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Testing and Assessment, Committee on the Assessment of 21st Century Skills, 2011-10-16 The routine jobs of yesterday are being replaced by technology and or shipped off shore. In their place job categories that require knowledge management, abstract reasoning and personal services seem to be growing. The modern workplace requires workers to have broad cognitive and affective skills. Often referred to as 21st century skills these skills include being able to solve complex problems, to think critically about tasks, to effectively communicate with people from a variety of different cultures and using a variety of different techniques to work in collaboration with others to adapt to rapidly changing environments and conditions for performing tasks, to effectively manage one's work and to acquire new skills and information on one's own. The National Research Council (NRC) has convened two prior workshops on the topic of 21st century skills. The first held in 2007 was designed to examine research on the skills required for the 21st century workplace and the extent to which they are meaningfully different from earlier eras and require corresponding changes in educational experiences. The second workshop held in 2009 was designed to explore demand for these types of skills, consider intersections between science education reform goals and 21st century skills, examine models of high quality science instruction that may develop the skills and consider science teacher readiness for 21st century skills. The third workshop was intended to delve more deeply into the topic of assessment. The goal for this workshop was to capitalize on the prior efforts and explore strategies for assessing the five skills identified earlier. The Committee on the Assessment of 21st Century Skills was asked to organize a workshop that reviewed the assessments and related research for each of the five skills identified at the previous workshops with special attention to recent developments in technology enabled assessment of critical thinking and problem solving skills. In designing the workshop the committee collapsed the five skills into three broad clusters as shown below: Cognitive skills: nonroutine problem solving, critical thinking, systems thinking, Interpersonal skills: complex communication, social skills, team work, cultural sensitivity, dealing with diversity, Intrapersonal skills: self management, time management, self development, self regulation, adaptability, executive functioning. Assessing 21st Century Skills provides an integrated summary of the presentations and discussions from both parts of the third workshop.

2012 GCSE English results Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Education Committee,2013-06-11 The 2012 GCSE English results prompted significant controversy which ultimately resulted in an application for judicial review This report sets out the background to these events and identifies lessons to be learned The problems with GCSE English can be traced back to the 2007 09 development phase of the qualification in particular the turbulence which resulted from the shift away from a mostly linear to a modular system combined with a high proportion of controlled assessment and generous marking tolerances Exam board experts raised concerns at the time but these were not acted upon by the regulator the then interim Ofqual Further difficulties arose because of pressures from the school accountability system The problems experienced with GCSE English in 2012 highlighted serious weaknesses in the moderation of speaking and listening with consequences for grade awarding The current status of Ofqual as an independent regulator accountable to Parliament is the right one However the Coalition Government is bringing in wholesale changes to GCSEs and A levels to a tight timetable and at the same time Ofqual must have systems in place The Committee is also concerned that there is a rush towards separate exam systems for England Wales and Northern Ireland without careful reflection on what might be lost or consensus that this is the right thing to do

Quality Assurance and Accreditation in Foreign Language Education Donald F. Staub, 2019-08-01 Greater student mobility increasing demand for access to tertiary education as well as policy changes have spurred rapid expansion of the global higher education sector However with increased demand comes considerable variation in the quality of the supply As higher education is an expensive endeavor for all stakeholders governments funders employers and families there are also increasing expectations for accountability and demonstrations of quality English as a foreign language EFL programs in particular are under considerable pressure to substantiate their value resulting in a significant rise in interest around their quality This volume is the outcome of a May 2018 international conference on quality and specialized accreditation held in Turkey The book s three sections take the reader from the global to the program level examining trends and best practices in quality assurance and accreditation in EFL programs The book s geographic focus is primarily the Middle East and Turkey yet the issues discussed herein a quite global in nature This volume will be of interest to educational administrators at the institutional or program level educational leadership programs focusing on higher education language teacher preparation programs and administrators in centralized education systems or accrediting organizations

From Stars To Stalagmites: How Everything Connects Paul S Braterman, 2012-04-16 Feynman once selected as the single most important statement in science that everything is made of atoms It follows that the properties of everything depend on how these atoms are joined together giving rise to the vast field we know of today as chemistry In this unique book specifically written to bridge the gap between chemistry and the layman Braterman has put together a series of linked essays on chemistry related themes that are particularly engaging The book begins with the age of the earth and concludes with the life cycle of stars In between there are atoms old and new the ozone hole mystery and how it was solved synthetic fertilisers and explosives reading the climate record the extraction of metals the wetness of water and how the greenhouse effect on climate really works A chapter in praise of uncertainty leads on to the fuzziness and sharing of electrons and from there to molecular shape grass green and blood red the wetness of water and molecular recognition as the basis of life Organised in such a way as to illustrate and develop underlying principles and approaches this book will appeal to anyone interested in chemistry as well as its history and key personalities Where many other titles have failed this book succeeds brilliantly in capturing the spirit and essence of chemistry and delivering the science in easily digestible terms

The Corruption of the Curriculum Shirley Lawes,2007 The authors of this book examine the British National Curriculum from several different perspectives and concentrate on various subject areas The uniting theme between these essays is the argument that the subjects in the school curriculum used to be regarded as discrete areas of knowledge which would be imparted to pupils by teachers motivated by a love of learning but that this has not been enough for recent governments who see schools as a means of promoting social and political goals that may or may not relate to traditional academic disciplines The contributors to this book argue that we need to return to the traditional view of education as a means of transmitting a body of knowledge from one generation to the next and that academic rigour and respect for the professionalism of teachers should take precedence over political manipulation of the curriculum
