The Missing Prince G. Farrow,2015-09-25 In the Preface to my last book I told you that when I closed my eyes I seemed to see hundreds of dear Children s faces turned towards me asking for a story and now as so many copies of that book have been sold I am bound to believe that not hundreds but thousands of little friends to whom I was this time last year a stranger are expecting another story from my pen Some of you may perhaps have seen the very kind things which so many of the papers said about The Wallypug of Why Now I am going to tell you a secret even at the risk of seeming ungrateful to them It is this Much as I value their kind opinion and proud and happy as I am that my book has met with their approval I value your criticism even more highly than theirs and I am going to ask you to do me a great favour I have had so many letters from little friends about The Wallypug of Why that it has made me greedy and like Oliver I want more So will you please write me a letter too your very own self telling me just what you think of these two books and also what kind of story you want after my next one which is to be a School story called Schooldays at St Vedast s and which will be published almost as soon as this one is I did think of writing a story about pet animals for I am very fond of them so if you can tell me anything interesting about your dogs or cats rabbits or other favourites I may perhaps find room for the account in my book
